

Summary

Three separate market intelligence summaries of wood market trends emerging in China, Japan and Europe are now available either in PDF form or hard copy publication.

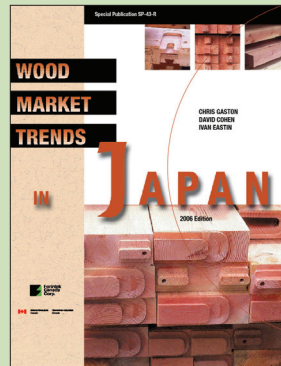

Trends covered in each publication include: changing market demographics, green building developments, government regulations and changes involving export competition. Each outlined trend highlights the challenges and opportunities for wood product manufacturers exporting to these countries.

Along with the 2006 publication of Wood Market Trends in Japan is a timely 2009 update which can be distributed in PDF form or as an insert to the 2006 publication. Among the trends discussed in the update are how the Japanese are encouraging more use of domestic wood; increased performance and durability regulations for housing and their impact; the continuing strong market for Western-style platform-frame housing; continued growth in the use of engineered wood products; and the impact of green building and healthy housing initiatives.
